SMART. STYLISH. SENSATIONAL.

- The convenience of a self-watering pot with the beauty of high-quality glazed ceramics. Durable quality components can be reused year after year.
- No risk of overwatering. An overflow valve ensures plants cannot be overwatered, even in heavy rain.
- No unsightly plastic drip tubing. A cleaner look that can be enjoyed anywhere instead of needing to stay where plumbing is located.
- Elimination of fertilizer leaching and runoff due to the enclosed watering system.
- No more water ring stains on the deck or porch.
- Watering frequency is significantly decreased.
- Smaller AquaPots last at least a week between waterings; larger Professional Series pots last up to one month.
- Water savings with no waste. 25% of the amount of water is used with AquaPots vs. similar sized pots on drip irrigation.
- Beautifully grown plants. Plants have continuous access to fertilizer-infused water and require minimal watering.
- Frost and freeze resistant ceramic. Simply empty the pot and turn it upside down for winter (important for northern gardeners).

WHAT DO I DO WITH MY AQUAPOT IN THE WINTER?

As northern gardeners, we recommend switching out a planting of annual summer flowers in mid-to-late September. This will allow you to enjoy a Fall arrangement of plants and decorations in your AquaPot for several weeks before freezing weather comes on, (hopefully until after Thanksgiving Day). The soil in the pot can often be reused for this planting.

Since we recommend you replace your soil annually to provide more nutrients and minimize disease or viruses in the soil, plan on emptying the pot completely before the freezing weather begins. The water can be removed by dumping or using a pump.

Once completely empty, the AquaPots can be stored in a garage or other heated or unheated indoor storage. The AquaPots can also be turned upside down and left outside all winter. Another option for leaving the AquaPots outside all winter would be to cover the empty AquaPot with a piece of wood or tile and then place a garbage bag, secured with duct tape, over the top opening to ensure no moisture can enter.

KEY BENEFITS OF AQUAPOTS

While you're saving time and labor, the plants grown in AquaPots are bursting with vigor due to their consistent access to nutrient-infused water.

AquaPots use 75% less water than drip irrigation systems without the hassle of drip tubing. Simply top off the tank once per week, or even less frequently for extra-large AquaPots.

The risk of overwatering is eliminated by the overflow valve. Even in heavy rain, the valve maintains the proper water level in the pot.

Because the soil and water reservoirs remain completely separate, AquaPots won't become clogged and the plants' roots won't suffocate from too much moisture.

Heavy duty components assemble and disassemble easily with no tools required. The self-watering insert can easily be taken apart, cleaned and reused year after year.

The completely sealed pot eliminates unsightly staining on the deck or lanai surface.

Nutrient-infused water continually feeds the plants without runoff or waste. Simply add two scoops of Proven Winners Premium Continuous Release Plant Food to the fill tube at the time of planting and it will continue to feed for up to six months.
